Location and Time

The event will be held at eatery Rico's Tacos Lupe (802 SW Boulevard, KCMO), west of the CrossRoads District. The exhibit will be from 6:00 pm to 9:30 pm. About The Venue Rico's Tacos Lupe is popular boulevard eatery in KCMO and will open its doors for this one-night only event. There will be food specials available to purchase.

About the Exhibit

The First Friday Off The Crossroads Art Exhibit will be centered around AO's most recent piece, "The Hoz", a 2' x 3' acrylic on canvas work of All Star MVP Eric Hosmer. The public is welcome to come view and discuss AO's and Darryl's work, process and future plans with his sports art. "It is really cool to show and share my recent Royals pieces along with my comic book work to fans that love art and the Royals. Just like music and sports, I enjoy the reaction my work has on people. Some are amazed, some are proud, some are inspired, either way, It's exciting to see people appreciate your hard work," Oropeza said.

About "AO"

Oropeza, by day, is a full-time web development coordinator and by night and weekends, he works at his KC home-studio creating and producing his sports paintings, comic book art along with offering consulting, marketing and branding services. Oropeza is also a writer, producer, publisher and creator of a bilingual comic book character (AMIGOMAN) created for kid's to promote reading. His comic book publication allows him to visit area schools to speak to students about what he does as an artist, creator, designer, writer and publisher.

AOART5 and Strong Ave. Studios

AOART5 and Strong Ave. Studios are Oropeza's art and design studios. The studios focus on primarily Sports Art, Comic Book and Character Art and Web Design Consulting. The studios hope to produce other kid's stories of other local KC authors in the future. AO also works with various charitable organizations in the US.
